

PRODUCT MEMO

The use of third-party trademarks as well as of the OE references included, present in this website, in our catalogues and in our price lists, has the sole and exclusive purpose of indicating the destination of spare parts or accessories, thus allowing the identification of the product under analysis (as expressly permitted by art. 14 of the European Regulation 2017/1001 and art. 21 of the Italian Industrial Property Code, Legislative Decree 30/2005).

To be noted that all items included in this website, in our catalogues and in our price lists are not original spare parts but perfectly suitable and interchangeable with them. In addition, all items included in this website, in our catalogues and in our price lists are used on vehicles already placed on the market within the European Economic Area and only after the authorization of the owner of the vehicle being repaired.

The applicability of any intellectual property rights (patents, designs, trademarks, copyrights, etc.) to the sale of our products (body parts, lamps, mirrors and other accessories) is different in each Country. Any infringements of local laws of third Countries are to be attributed exclusively to the importer and/or retailer in the final Country of distribution.

The products are presented in accordance with legal requirements and its representation is as accurate as possible. However, COS.PEL. S.r.l. cannot guarantee the perfect representation of the products on the website and/or in the catalogues, in particular due to the differences in color performance between different browsers and/or display screens. Therefore, COS.PEL. S.r.l. cannot be held responsible for any potential inaccuracies of the photos on the website and/or in the catalogues. Furthermore, differences between the products delivered and the products represented on the website and/or in the catalogues may exist. This is mainly due to handmade works for which production homogeneity cannot be perfectly and constantly be guaranteed or to adjustments linked to technical or technological evolution. Considering that these differences do not affect the essential characteristics of the products and their quality, they cannot justify any order cancellation or delivery refusal.

All our products are guaranteed against possible conformity defects and hidden defects according to the conditions provided for by the provisions of the Italian Consumer Code and the Italian Civil Code. Any complaints relating to non-concealed defects must be made in accordance with the company policy.
